The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Uffindell in view of Glassberg. Uffindell discloses the claimed device with the exception of the raised exterior surfaces. However, as disclosed by Glassberg such are known in the art on one-piece grips for allowing the batter to align the knuckles as desired. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to have provided such raised surfaces on Uffindell's grip for the same reason.

Regarding the claimed hardness Uffindell does not disclose a particular value although the grip needs to be elastic enough to be held wide open by a vacuum while a bat handle is inserted. Absent a showing of unexpected results the exact hardness of Uffindell's handle would have been up to the ordinarily skilled artisan depending on the durability and flexibility of the grip desired.

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Art Unit: 3711

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-4 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-5 of U.S. Patent No. 6,752,731. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because removal of the additionally claimed element with their corresponding loss of function would have been obvious to the ordinarily skilled artisan.

Claims 5-8 are allowed.

Smith, Keeney, Huang, and Briggs have been cited for interest because they disclose similar devices.
